ABOUT THE AUTHOR

[pronounced: May'-come-burr, slight accent on May']

Raised on the southwest coast of Florida, Robert N. Macomber is best known for his "Honor Series", the popular set of maritime thrillers which describe the life and career of his protagonist, a United States naval officer named Peter Wake.

His fourteen novels illuminate significant events of world history, and the real history throughout is brought to life in a most compelling and entertaining way.

He'll take you back in time to the Civil War in Florida, into the Spanish-American War in Cuba, and beyond.

Whether writing novels or speaking to audiences across the globe, Robert gladly shares the little-known discoveries he's made through his intense research, both academic and on-location.

He's been the winner of the Patrick D. Smith Literary Award for Best Historical Novel of Florida, the American Library Association's Boyd Literary Award for Excellence in Military Fiction, and the Silver Medal in Popular Fiction from the Florida Book Awards in 2017, to name a few.

His novels are true page turners, and they are on sale in the gift shop. He'll be happy to sign purchased copies. Robert's 14th novel, titled Honoring the Enemy is published by the USNI's Naval Institute Press.
